Quick Guide to the ISCA 2021 Venue

This is a short guide to the ISCA virtual venue. We encourage you to explore! At the home page there are eye-shaped buttons to register and to download useful information (Documents). These documents are also available once you enter the Main Conference Hall. For the week of June 7, the Exhibition Hall and the auditoria are not available; these will open the week of June 14, the official starting date of the conference.

The top menu contains links to the conference program (“Program”) and the discussion forum (“Forum”). These two sections will be your main avenues to navigate the conference the week of June 7.

The Program option opens a window listing the conference’s entire program, sorted by day and session. Each session can be added to one’s personalized schedule by clicking on the calendar icon with the “+” sign. Each paper entry lists the title, authors, and abstract, as well as buttons to watch the author’s video recording and to download a PDF copy of the paper. While watching a video, attendees may enter questions or comments for the authors in the Comments box below the video screen. Authors are recommended to refrain from immediately answering those questions, thus keeping them for the Q&A part of their live presentation.

The Forum option opens a different window, where one can scroll through the open discussions among attendees. These are different from the comments to papers: attendees create new threads based on their topic of interest, and others join in the debate. Please note that these discussion threads are monitored for relevance and appropriateness. Look for your favorite topic(s) or create a new one.

In the main hall, there is an information booth that also provides access to the online conference program, as well as several useful documents. These documents include the technical requirements of the platform, guidelines for speakers and session chairs, a downloadable and clickable PDF of the conference program, and welcome messages by the general, program, and industry track chairs.

Finally, attendees can access their personal profiles in the upper right corner, exchange virtual business cards with other attendees, etc.

If you get lost, you can go to the “Information Desk” to read FAQs or communicate with the technical secretariat.
